

Notes on Contributors

Iwona Dronia, PhD, is Assistant Professor at the Institute of English of the University of Silesia in Katowice. Her main areas of interest are SLA theory and research, discourse analysis (especially academic teacher discourse), rhetorics, socio-pragmatics and cross-cultural communication.

ORCID ID: <https://orcid.org/0000-0002-9556-0953>

Contact details: University of Silesia, Institute of English, ul. Gen. Stefana Grot-Roweckiego 5, 41-205 Sosnowiec, Poland (iwona.dronia@us.edu.pl)

Małgorzata Ekiert, PhD, works in the Institute of Modern Languages at Pomeranian University, Słupsk, Poland. She received her doctorate from Poznań University. Her BA, MA and doctoral theses focused on applied linguistics. She is a certified teacher and has taught in primary and secondary schools as well as worked as a foreign language teacher trainer. Her research interests include learner autonomy, learning strategies and educational technology. She gives courses in linguistics, methodology of English language teaching and language acquisition.

ORCID ID: <https://orcid.org/0000-0002-1996-7284>

Contact details: Pomeranian University in Słupsk, Institute of Modern Languages, ul. Słowiańska 8, 76-200 Słupsk, Poland (malgorzata.ekiert@apsl.edu.pl)

Melanie Ellis, PhD, works at the Pedagogical University, Kraków where she is head of the Practical English section in the department of English Teaching Methodology. Her research interests include assessment of foreign language, teacher education, and investigation of learners for whom foreign language learning is a challenge. She has recently published a longitudinal study on the impact of the national lower secondary school examination on teaching and learning (2018).

ORCID ID: <https://orcid.org/0000-0002-7274-0564>

Contact details: Pedagogical University of Kraków, Institute of Modern Languages, ul. Karmelicka 5, 31-116 Kraków, Poland (melanie.ellis@up.krakow.pl)

Işıl Erduyan is Assistant Professor at the Department of Foreign Language Education, Boğaziçi University, Istanbul. Her research interests include multilingualism and identity processes in the classroom. She has published in several peer-reviewed journals in addition to her recent book Multilingual Construction of Identity: German-Turkish Adolescents at School from ibidem Press, Stuttgart.

ORCID ID: <https://orcid.org/0000-0002-0542-3788>

Contact details: Boğaziçi University, Faculty of Education, Department of Foreign Language Education, 34342 Bebek, Istanbul, Turkey (isilerduyan@gmail.com)

Luis Guerra is Assistant Professor of English Language and Linguistics and the Director of the Language Centre of the School of Social Sciences, at the University of Évora, Portugal, and has a PhD in English Language Teaching/Applied Linguistics from the University of Warwick, UK. He has taught English and applied linguistics courses in Brazil, the USA, the UK, Spain and Portugal. His research interests are ELF/EIL, ELF-based teaching methodology, World Englishes, the role of English in the Expanding Circle, language learning motivation, learner's identity, intercultural communication and the use of technology in second language teaching/learning.

ORCID ID: <https://orcid.org/0000-0002-6882-3789>

Contact details: Language Centre of the School of Social Sciences, University of Évora, Largo dos Colegiais 2, 7000-812 Évora, Portugal (lspg@uevora.pt)

Oleksandr Kapranov is currently employed at Western Norway University of Applied Sciences, campus Haugesund/Stord. He obtained his PhD from The University of Western Australia in Perth, WA. Oleksandr was a holder of a post-doctoral research fellowship at the University of Bergen, Norway. His research interests include cognitive linguistics, academic writing, and psycholinguistics.

ORCID ID: <https://orcid.org/0000-0002-9056-3311>

Contact details: Western Norway University of Applied Sciences, Bjørnsons gate 45, 5528 Haugesund, Norway (Oleksandr.Kapranov@hvl.no)

Joanna Rokita-Jaśkow is Associate Professor in Applied Linguistics at the Pedagogical University of Cracow, Poland, where she is head of the ELT sections as well as the head of a postgraduate program for pre-primary and primary FL teachers. Her main research interests concern foreign language teacher education, child foreign and second language acquisition and bi/multilingualism. She is author of over 40 papers and 5 books.

ORCID ID: <https://orcid.org/0000-0002-6272-9548>

Contact details: Pedagogical University of Kraków, Institute of Modern Languages, ul. Karmelicka 5, 31-116 Kraków, Poland (jrokita@up.krakow.pl)

Aleksandra Szymańska-Tworek is Assistant Professor at the Institute of English of the University of Silesia in Katowice. Her research interests are related to teacher education and teacher training, the functioning and role of the English language in the present-day world, as well as teaching of English for medical purposes. She is the author and co-author of a number of publications in journals and edited collections.

ORCID ID: <https://orcid.org/0000-0002-2436-1551>

Contact details: University of Silesia, Institute of English, ul. Gen. Stefana Grot-Roweckiego 5, 41-205 Sosnowiec, Poland (aleksandra.szymanska@us.edu.pl)

Dorota Werbińska is Associate Professor in the Institute of Modern Languages at Pomeranian University in Słupsk, Poland. A former teacher, a teacher trainer, and an in-service teacher educator, she is author of 4 books on modern language teachers and almost 60 articles, book chapters, and book reviews published nationally and internationally. Her main academic interests are within the field of language teacher education, both pre-service and in-service, in particular language teacher identity, teacher professional development, teacher reflexivity, and qualitative research.

ORCID ID: <https://orcid.org/0000-0002-1502-7199>

Contact details: Pomeranian University in Słupsk, Institute of Modern Languages, ul. Słowiańska 8, 76-200 Słupsk, Poland (dorota.werbinska@apsl.edu.pl)

Burçak Yılmaz Yakışık is an instructor of English at Gazi University, School of Foreign Languages. She received her PhD from the same university in 2012. Her research areas cover learner variables, teacher training, assessment, socio-cultural theory.

ORCID ID: <https://orcid.org/0000-0001-5008-9988>

Contact details: School of Foreign Languages, Gazi University, Bahçelievler Mahallesi, Gazi Üniv. Gölbaşı Yerleşkesi, 06830 Gölbaşı/Ankara (yyburcak@gmail.com)