

Notes on Contributors

Sara Isabel Álvarez Alvis is a language teacher and researcher, as well as an active member of the research seedbed Letras y Voces, Universidad Católica Luis Amigó, Colombia. She has participated in projects related to foreign language teaching and learning processes in specific scenarios. She is currently working on a project about Colombian music in language learning.

ORCID ID: <https://orcid.org/0000-0001-4701-3911>

Contact details: Centre for Language Teacher Training, Universidad Católica Luis Amigó, Transversal 51A #67B 90 Medellín, Colombia (sara.alvarezal@amigo.edu.co)

Edmond Cane, PhD, graduated in English Language from the University of Tirana, Albania in 1988. He completed his doctoral studies at the Academy of Albanian Studies in 2016 when he defended his dissertation, a crosslinguistic study of verb tenses, titled The Grammatical Category: A Survey onto the Traditional Boundary Between Grammar and Semantics. Since 2018, he has taught courses in an MA program in Albanian language and culture at the Beijing International Studies University, China. He has presented papers at international conferences. He specializes in crosslinguistic research from the angle of Construction Grammar (CG) and Cognitive Linguistics (CL). His main research interests are in the area of grammar, relying on the CG tenets of constructions as the primary blocks, argument structure, idiosyncratic features in Albanian as well as applications of CG and CL concepts and tenets to teaching practice, etc.

ORCID ID: <https://orcid.org/0000-0002-8236-2704>

Contact details: School of European Languages, Beijing International Studies University, Beijing, PR of China (ecane2000@yahoo.com)

Árpád Farkas is a temporary lecturer in the Department of English Applied Linguistics, Eötvös Loránd University, Budapest, Hungary. He has also taught English at the International Business School in Budapest as well as at various language schools in Hungary and elsewhere. In addition to teaching, he has been pursuing a PhD in the Language Pedagogy Program of Eötvös Loránd University. His professional interests include pragmatics and English as a lingua franca, and his current research focuses on the use of English in international classroom contexts.

ORCID ID: <https://orcid.org/0000-0002-2504-7046>

Contact details: Department of English Applied Linguistics, School of English and American Studies, Eötvös Loránd University, Rákóczi út 5, Budapest, 1088, Hungary (farkas.arpad@btk.elte.hu)

Marc Jones has been teaching since 2003 and currently teaches English at universities in Japan. He started in private language schools and has taught in almost every context possible in Japan. He is particularly interested in task-based language teaching, listening and phonology learning, teacher development, teacher beliefs, classroom materials development, and neuro-divergency in language teaching and learning. He holds a Trinity DipTESOL and an MA Applied Linguistics and TESOL from University of Portsmouth, UK. His website is <http://marcjones.tokyo/>

ORCID ID: <https://orcid.org/0000-0002-2004-1809>

Contact details: Tokyo Kasei University, Tokyo Kasei University, Itabashi Campus, Tokyo-to, Itabashi-ku, Kaga 1-18-1, 173-8602, Japan (tk1307@tokyo-kasei.ac.jp)

Jerson Alexander Mesa Montoya is a language teacher and researcher, as well as an active member of the research seedbed Letras y Voces, Universidad Católica Luis Amigó, Colombia. He has participated in projects about collaborative tools in language learning. He is currently working on a project related to the way grammar functions in language learning.

ORCID ID: <https://orcid.org/0000-0001-3869-9728>

Contact details: Centre for Language Teacher Training, Universidad Católica Luis Amigó, Transversal 51A #67B 90 Medellín, Colombia (jerson.mesamo@amigo.edu.co)

Dennis Michael Pamplona Rendón is a language teacher and researcher, as well as an active member of the research seedbed Letras y Voces, Universidad Católica Luis Amigó, Colombia. She has participated in projects related to assessment in language learning. She is currently working on a project about reading comprehension in fifth grade students of elementary school.

ORCID ID: <https://orcid.org/0000-0001-3869-9728>

Contact details: Centre for Language Teacher Training, Universidad Católica Luis Amigó, Transversal 51A #67B 90 Medellín, Colombia (dennis.pamplonare@amigo.edu.co)

Valentina Restrepo Nieto is a language teacher and researcher, as well as an active member of the research seedbed Letras y Voces, Universidad Católica Luis Amigó, Colombia. She has participated in projects about using myths and legends in language learning. She is currently working on a project related to the use of books and notebooks as meaningful tools during the learning process.

ORCID ID: <https://orcid.org/0000-0001-0172-1348>

Contact details: Centre for Language Teacher Training, Universidad Católica Luis Amigó, Transversal 51A #67B 90 Medellín, Colombia (valentina.restreponi@amigo.edu.co)

Ayşegül Nergis holds a PhD in English Language Teaching. She is currently an instructor in Istanbul University, Turkey. She has published on second language reading, neurocognitive basis of language teaching methods and history of language teaching education. Her current research interests are vocabulary instruction, speaking in EAP and spoken academic discourse. She has contributed to several EU-funded projects and taught in undergraduate programs.

ORCID ID: <https://orcid.org/0000-0002-0498-2705>

Contact details: Istanbul University School of Languages, Kirazlı Mescit sk 31, Fatih, İstanbul, Turkey (aysegulnergis@gmail.com)

Bairon Jaramillo Valencia is University Professor in the Centre for Language Teacher Training and Humanities, Universidad Católica Luis Amigó, Colombia. He has published on foreign language teaching, specific learning processes, effective teaching practices, literature and group dynamics. He has participated in several research groups as well as in inter-institutional projects. He initiated the laboratory of language project in Universidad de San Buenaventura, Colombia.

ORCID ID: <https://orcid.org/0000-0001-6471-3139>

Contact details: Centre for Language Teacher Training, Universidad Católica Luis Amigó, Transversal 51A #67B 90 Medellín, Colombia (bairon.jaramillova@amigo.edu.co)